This management bulletin transmits information on obtaining What's Cooking? fact sheets from the National Food Service Management Institute (NFSMI).

All available issues of What's Cooking? fact sheets are now available on the NFSMI web site at <http://www.olemiss.edu/depts/nfsmi/>. These fact sheets are published four times a year by the NFSMI and contain information for providing quality, nutritious meals to children and adults in the Child Care Food Program (CCFP) and Adult Day Care Food Program (ADCFP). Although the information appears to be directed mainly toward child care providers, the fact sheets contain valuable information for adult day care providers also. Please feel free to photocopy or use the content in your agency newsletters.
